- F. THE IMMEDIATE SUCCESS OF THE SONG

MONEY FOR NOTHING – THE STORY BEHIND THE SONG

4.1.
------	--

The story begins with Mark Knopfler, the lead guitarist and vocalist of the band Dire Straits, stopping in New York City at an electronics store. While he was there, quite by accident he overheard a conversation between two workers who were watching music videos on the store's television sets. One of the men was complaining about how rock stars seemed to make "money for nothing". That comment gave Knopfler the idea for his next song.

4.2.

Knopfler brought this idea to his band and he also contacted Sting, the lead vocalist of The Police. The artists worked together to compose the melody and write the lyrics of Money for Nothing. Neither of them was sure about the reaction of the public to their new song. Knopfler admits that while they were making the recording, he often asked himself the question, "Will the song be successful?"

4.3.

Money for Nothing was released in 1985 as part of the album Brothers in Arms. The song's characteristic guitar melody, energetic beat and satirical lyrics about the music scene made it an overnight hit. A key factor in the song's instant popularity was the accompanying music video, which included computer-generated animation.

4.4.

Today Money for Nothing is considered a rock classic and it has had a huge effect on the music industry. As you might expect, the song has inspired songwriters and musicians in various ways over the years. 35 artists have used various elements of Money for Nothing in their songs. None of them, however, have matched the success of the original.

THE RIGHT SPORTS SHOES: FAQs

Q: When should I try on sneakers?

A: Remember that your feet get bigger when you do physical exercise. So, to avoid getting sports shoes which are too small for you, we recommend doing a training session before going shopping.

Q: When should I buy a new pair of sneakers?

A: After 500 kilometres of jogging or 300 hours of exercise.

SNEAKERS, SNEAKERS EVERYWHERE

My father lent me a thousand dollars and I was able to make a huge order. Soon the sneakers were delivered to our house. I carried the cartons down to the basement and opened them one by one. Each carton held thirty pairs and each pair was wrapped in cellophane. Within minutes the basement was filled with sneakers. I admired them, played with them. Finally, I tried on a pair. I ran in circles around the basement. I jumped for joy. Days later a letter came from Mr. Miyazaki. Yes, he said, you can be the distributor of these sports shoes in the West. That was all I needed. I quit my job and all that spring I did nothing but sell sneakers out of my car. I had no idea that this would lead to the start of my own sports shoe company.

Tekst D

Fit Footwear has a very user-friendly website with a huge choice of sports shoes. It's the most convenient way to shop for sneakers. Their shop, located in the shopping mall, is also great – you just sit on a comfortable sofa and look through the shop's range of sneakers on a tablet to select a pair you want to try on. A few minutes later, a staff member brings them out to you. They can also advise you on what shoes suit you best. What's more, in the shop there is a device which scans customers' feet and gives very accurate information about how big their shoes should be. I was really impressed!

Hi Ashley,

Of course, I can help you buy a suitable pair of running shoes. I've heard about two good shops where we can start our search. In the first one, there is a special technology which lets you know what 5.4. _____ is best for you. You'll just sit on a comfortable sofa and tick on a tablet the shoes you'd like to try on. After a few minutes a staff member will bring them to you.

Remember that you should go shopping 5.5. _____. because that's the best time to try on sports shoes. You'll never enjoy jogging when your shoes are too small.

If they haven't got anything you like in that shop, we could try one of the shops of this new brand I've heard about. They have a completely new approach to sneakers, and it's possible to get a discount if you 5.6. _____. Their sneakers are made from different kinds of recycled materials. I am thinking of buying a pair from them for myself. I've run 5.7. _____ in my old shoes and I've learnt that that's the distance after which it is advisable to exchange your sneakers for new ones.

Let me know when we can go shopping together.

By the time I was seven, my mother and I had changed homes thirteen times. We rented spaces informally, staying at friends' homes while they were on holiday. We finally moved to an apartment just perfect for us on the ground floor of a small building on Channing Avenue in Palo Alto. It was the first place my mother had officially rented. We carried in our things: some kitchen supplies, a desk, and a lamp. But when we looked at the living room, it still seemed empty. The next day, Mom called her ex-husband Steve and asked him for help. He offered her a sofa for free. He had one he didn't need anymore.

A few days later my mother said to me: "My friend Elaine has promised to come over with her van. We're going to Steve's house to pick up the sofa. You can come with us if you want, Lisa." Steve had a house about half an hour away from ours. I'd never been there and I'd only met him a couple of times. My Mom knew Steve was really forgetful so she worried that if we didn't get the sofa soon, he'd throw it away.

Elaine came in the afternoon and after half an hour we got to Steve's house. It had two floors, a dark roof and long windows. We rang the bell and waited, but no one came. My mother tried the front door. "Locked," she said. She walked around the house and tried the back door. "Locked," she called out. She came back to the front, looked up at the windows and saw that one of them was open. "I'm going to try this way," she said. She pulled herself up. I was terrified she would fall. She got inside through the open window and a few seconds later had the front door open. "We're in!" Mom said triumphantly.

A few minutes later my mother and Elaine reappeared holding the sofa between them. They got it through the front door and put it into the back of the van. "Yes! We've done it! Now let's go!" Mom shouted. The next day, Steve called. "Hey, I saw you 'break in' and take the sofa. It was funny!" He had security cameras which monitored his house, and had watched the whole thing. "Yes, I did, because you said I could come and get the sofa," Mom replied in a slightly annoyed tone. "I was busy at work the whole day. I'd totally forgotten about our arrangement. But it seems you managed to deal with it on your own," Steve laughed.

MEETING THE QUEEN

The story of Queen Elizabeth II meeting two American tourists shows the fun-loving side of her personality.

One day the monarch was out in the hills near her Scottish castle at Balmoral. She was with her protection officer, Richard Griffin. Two Americans, who were on a walking holiday, went up to her. 7.1. _____ First, the man asked the Queen where she lived, so she replied “London”, adding that she had a holiday home just over the hill. Aware that Balmoral Castle was nearby, the tourist then asked her if she had ever met Queen Elizabeth II. 7.2. _____ When the tourist heard that answer, he turned to Richard and wanted to know what the monarch was like in person. Richard knew Queen Elizabeth very well, so he was sure she wouldn’t mind if he said something funny. 7.3. _____ The tourist was really delighted with the reply. He put his arm around Richard’s shoulder and asked for a picture of him, his friend and Richard together. 7.4. _____ She agreed with a smile.

After that, the camera was passed to Richard who took a picture of Queen Elizabeth and the Americans. Later, the Queen said: “I’d love to see his reaction when he shows those photographs to his friends in America and someone tells him who I am.”

Na podstawie: www.reuters.com
